From the wines of Manolis Moraitis' family in Paros, uniquely crafted from the varieties Malagousia and Assyrtiko, cultivated with care, under his supervision. (The wines have been organically grown since 1997 and certified by DIO.) Ripe honeydew melon and tangy apple flavors mingle with hints of white pepper spice in a zesty finish.

| W&amp;S Magazine August 2017 90 pointsMade entirely from the estate's organically farmed vineyards, this is a rich, concentrated moschofilero. It reflects the variety's pale purple skins in its slight pink tinge, and draws out a host of floral and spice notes without extracting any phenolic bitterness. The result is fragrant and elegant, with a slightly oily intensity. The orange-citrus notes would be especially good next to grilled mackerel. |           |      |                                |             |             |

| This vintage, (2016), is ripe and spicy, a stylish wine with a core of sweet lemon flavors that seems to sparkle with minerality. Firm and showy, it's a white wine for red meat, like roast lamb with avgolemeno, a creamy sauce of olive oil and lemon. |           |       |  |             |             |

Wine & Spirits Aug 2017 93 points

This is as restrained as the pale hue predicts, with a leesy richness that builds power and volume into the stony, saline flavors. The acidity is insistent and energizing, making this a mouthwatering Santorini to pour with scallops.
